

We're here to help our communities throughout the rebuilding process.

As part of that effort, here is how you can establish temporary power:

CUSTOMER/CONTRACTOR COORDINATION

Before receiving temporary electric power from PG&E, customers or their licensed contractors are responsible for the cost and installation of a temporary underground service pedestal and any other necessary equipment. Customers should also obtain required permits and inspections from the city and/or county.

To learn more about requirements and policies, please visit pge.com/greenbook.

PG&E'S SUPPORT

For eligible customers impacted by a major natural disaster, PG&E will connect and disconnect temporary electric service at no cost until a permanent electric meter is installed.

To get started, submit your application at pge.com/cco. For questions, please email rebuild@pge.com.